

Knight's Templars

DARK DECEPTION

FRIDAY, JUNE 13, 2025

Where did the Knights Templar
come from?

The Knights Templars and the Jewish Elders

- Some believe the Knights Templars were part of a wave of European royalty descended from Jewish Elders that had fled the Holy Land around 70 AD, when it was invaded by the Romans.
- Theories suggest that the Templars were set up by the Jewish Elders, who included:
 - Saint Bernard of Clairvaux (co-founder of the Templars), the King of Jerusalem, and Hugues de Payens, (co-founder and first Grand Master of the Knights Templar)
- The real reason for the Templars was to uncover sacred truths beneath the Temple of Solomon that would challenge the established church.

Hidden Secrets in the Holy Land

- The Jewish elders left Jerusalem after the destruction of the Second Temple in 70 CE, when the Romans destroyed Jerusalem and exiled many of the Jewish inhabitants of Judea.
- Before leaving their homeland (Jerusalem), these Elders had hidden their temple treasures and priceless Essene (Dead Sea) and Kabbalistic (Jewish Mysticism, Black Magic) scrolls in strategic regions of the Holy Land so that the Roman invader Titus could not plunder them as the spoils of war.
- The Jewish Elders then immigrated to Europe.

REX DEUS: THE GOD KINGS

ARE THEY REALLY OF THE BLOODLINE OF JESUS?

- While in Europe, many of the Jewish Elders married into noble families.
- Of these Elders, twenty-four would become the patriarchs of a group of European families known by the nickname of the “Rex Deus (god)” or “Star” families.
 - a name given to those who CLAIM to be blood-relatives of Jesus through His mother, Mary.
 - are supposedly custodians of the "true" secrets of Judaism and Christianity.
 - Families of the Grail (The cup Jesus drank from)
 - Seekers of the Holy Chalice are not after it for what it is but the power it represents
 - Christians do not need the “holy Grail” - we have the authority of the Word of God and direct access to the only mediator between God and man – Jesus Christ 1 Tim 2:5

Under Muslim control, Christian pilgrims were able to visit the Temple Mount, but escalating violence against pilgrims eventually led to the Crusades.

Temple Mount one of the most holy sites in the entire world for Jews, Christians, and Muslims.

- Jews - God commanded Abraham to sacrifice Isaac in Genesis 22; Solomon built the first Temple; Nehemiah and Zerubbabel built the second Temple; and Herod the Great restored the second Temple.
- Christians – where Jesus was dedicated to the Lord; where Jesus taught; and where He overturned the money tables. He even prophesied against the Temple. Mount Moriah (Abraham), Threshing Floor (David)
- Muslims - It's believed that Muhammad ascended to Allah from the Temple Mount.

Knights Hospitallers in Jerusalem

A hospital founded around 1070 to nurse wounded and sick pilgrims in Jerusalem.

Could accommodate about two thousand patients, including the desperately poor, in luxury that not even many of the rich enjoyed: a separate feather bed for everyone, and lavish meals.

Kingdom of Jerusalem Came Under Papal Control

- The First Crusaders invaded to recover the Holy Land from Islamic rule.
- The first Crusaders were not the Knights Templar; they were a group of European Christians (Catholics) who responded to Pope Urban II's call for a holy war to reclaim Jerusalem and other holy sites from Muslim control.
- There they established the Kingdom of Jerusalem with the intention to set up a theocratic state directly under papal control.

- Hugues de Payens, the co-founder and first Grand Master of the Knights Templar.
- A French nobleman from Champagne, France.
- He realized that the pilgrims traveling to visit Holy Places faced dangers and had little means to protect themselves.
 - 300 were murdered and 60 taken into slavery (1119)
- In order to protect the pilgrims, he gathered eight of his knighted relatives and began the Order.

Nine Founding Fathers of the Knights Templar

- The NINE admitted no one to the group for NINE years.
- For nine years, there was very little written or recorded about the Order.
- There is no record anywhere of the NINE doing anything to protect pilgrims.
- How could so few men hope to fulfill such an immense a self-imposed task.
- Nine men to protect the pilgrims on all the thoroughfares of the Holy Land? Only nine? And all pilgrims?
- If this was their objective, one would surely expect them to welcome new recruits.

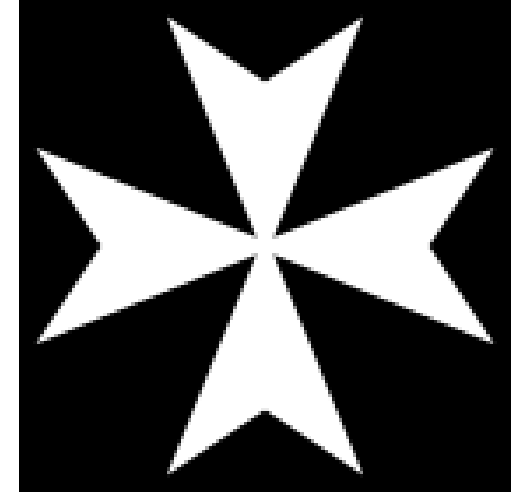

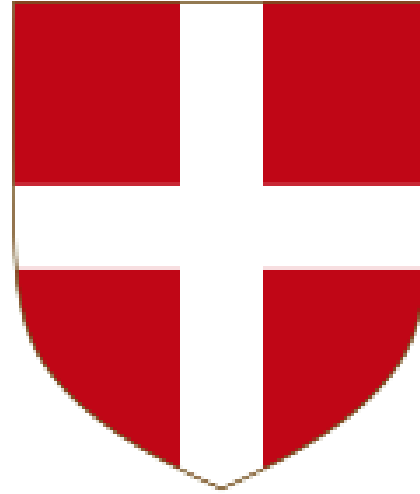

The Knights Templar were a specialized order of knights within the broader group of Crusaders.

While all Templars were Crusaders, not all Crusaders were Templars.

Order of Knights Hospitallers

- At first, the Hospitallers were a separate order.
- In addition to giving aid and encouragement to the pilgrims they also serviced the Knights Templars.
- Jealousy between the two groups brought conflict, but they fought for the same cause.
- Soon a transformation would take place with the Hospitallers.

Hospitaller's to Military Order

- The Hospitallers began to take over castles and set up quarters.
- They began to wear black robes with a white cross on their breasts, and to otherwise appear as rivals to the Templars during the 1120s.
- Their participation in the major battles of the era also was noted, and it is estimated that they soon had as many knights in the Holy Land as did the Templars.
- They equaled the Templars in terms of their fighting abilities and the casualties they suffered.

The Orders of Commandery

Red Cross Masonry has long been seen as a prerequisite for the chivalric degrees, and is found in both the York & Scottish Rites with its full form within Knight Masonry. In Commandery we refer to it as the Illustrious Order of the Red Cross, and through it we follow Zerubbabel on his journey to rebuild the temple, and communicate the important lesson of truth.

Order of Malta

Finding its roots in the ritual of the ancient Knights Hospitaller, one of few chivalric orders that still exist in modern times, the Order of Malta with the Degree of Knight of St. Paul or Mediterranean Pass found within it introduces us to the history of this order and we learn why modern Knights Templar still venerate it today.

Order of the Temple

Within this body we find the pinnacle of Christian knight-hood, and are challenged to embody and promote Christian virtues. Through it we are sent on a personal journey that brings us face to face with the martyrdom of Jesus Christ and our own mortality. Through this we learn that though our days are few the grave has been overcome, and our redeemer lives.

1099 AD Catholics Controlled Palestine

- The Dome of the Rock was turned into a church by a Catholic sect.
- A Catholic church hierarchy was established, with rule over the Christian orthodox churches, including the Syriac Orthodox Church, which was an extension of the church that Saint Peter had instituted at Antioch (Acts 11).
- The Al-Aqsa prayer hall became a royal palace for a while, and then for much of the 12th century it was the headquarters of the Knights Templars.

Evidence of Templars Jerusalem Excavation

- The Knights Templars spent years excavating under Herod's palace, the old Temple of Solomon.
- In 1894, British Royal Engineers discovered evidence of the Templars while mapping vaults under Mount Moriah.
 - They found artifacts: the Templar Cross, parts of a sword and lance – these are on display in Scotland.

What's Hidden Under the Temple?

- Several accounts say the Templars found a wealth of texts of hidden knowledge from Moses and Solomon.
- Also, material wealth of King Solomon's diamonds, precious gems and gold and silver which was transported to their temple in Paris.
- It is believed that astonishing technology secrets which were in use prior to Noah's flood were found and have passed through the secret societies, such as the Rosicrucians and the Knights Templars.

Art of Deception

Kingdom of Jerusalem Came Under Papal Control and Crusader MILITARY ORDER

- The Christian Armies who occupied the city and the surrounding area were under constant threat from the enemy Arabs.
- The church was grateful for the services of the Knights Templars.
- They evolved to propagating or defending the faith and guarantee access to Holy Land.
- Military actions were mostly against Islamic forces or in the suppression of heretics.

Religion + Politics

Poor Fellow-Soldiers of the Christ and of the Temple of Solomon

The nine knights approached King Baldwin II of Jerusalem and informed the King of their quest.

He allowed them to set up headquarters in the Temple Mount.

The Templars were allowed to stay at Aqsa Mosque which was believed to stand where in the same place where Solomon's Temple once existed.

Due to the prestige of their location they incorporated it into the name of their order.

They became the Poor Fellow-Soldiers of the Christ and of the Temple of Solomon.

It would eventually be shortened to the Knights Templar.

Crypto

- Outwardly, the order's political involvement appeared to be confined to Christendom alone.
- Close links were forged with the Muslim world—the world so often opposed on the battlefield.
- The Templars commanded a respect from Arab leaders exceeding that rendered from any other Europeans.
- It was suspected that many leading Knights Templar were actually concealed Muslims and Jews as Hebrew was the working language.

Monopoly on the World System

- Through their sustained contact with Islamic and Judaic culture they came to act as a clearinghouse for new ideas, new dimensions of knowledge, new sciences.
- They had a monopoly on the best and most advanced technology of their age: Armorers, leatherworkers, stonemasons, military architects, and engineers.
- They contributed to the development of surveying, mapmaking, road building, and navigation.
- They possessed their own seaports, shipyards, and fleet—a fleet both commercial and military, which was among the first to use the magnetic compass.
- And as soldiers the Templars' need to treat wounds and illness made them adept in the use of drugs.
- The order maintained its own hospitals with its own physicians and surgeons— whose use of mold extract suggests an inkling of the properties of antibiotics.

Templar Secret Connection to the Islamic Assassins

- Secret connections were maintained by the Templars with the Hashishim, or Assassins, the famous sect of militant and often fanatical adepts who were Islam's equivalent of the Templars.
- Hashishin - the first known group to practice assassination as a profession.
- The Hashishim paid tribute to the Temple and were rumored to be in its employ.
- Most of the early members of the secret society were Shiite Muslims and were located primarily in Syria and Persia (Iran).
- They specialised in lone missions to kill, sometimes under the influence of drugs, and favoured daggers and poison.

The ORDER Rules

- Within a mere twelve months of the Council of Troyes the order held substantial estates in France, England, Scotland, Flanders, Spain, and Portugal.
- Within another decade it also held territory in Italy, Austria, Germany, Hungary, the Holy Land, and points east.
- Although individual knights were bound to their vow of poverty, this did not prevent the order from amassing wealth, and on an unprecedented scale.
- All gifts were welcomed.
- At the same time the order was forbidden to dispose of anything—not even to ransom its leaders.
- The Temple received in abundance but, as a matter of strict policy, it never gave.

Benefits of the Templars

- The houses of the Knights could not be invaded by any civil officer.
- Their churches and cemeteries were exempt from injunctions.
- There was no taxes on their properties or revenues.
- So great were the benefits that thousands sought to be affiliated with the brotherhood.

International, Political and Religious Influence

- During the next hundred years the Templars became a power with international influence.
- They were constantly engaged in high-level diplomacy among nobles and monarchs throughout the Western world and the Holy Land.
- Even Kings submitted to their authority.
- In England, for example, the master of the Temple was regularly called to the king's Parliament and was regarded as head of all religious orders, taking precedence over all priors and abbots in the land.

Holy Blood, Holy Grail

Those who qualified as knights made up a very small proportion

- First among these were the sergeants, some of whom also were mounted, but most of whom served as infantry.
 - Sergeants could not wear the white robes of the knights and were not expected to fight with the same degree of bravery.
- In addition were the squires, who were the personal servants of the knights, each knight having a squire to care for his horses and his armor.
 - Squires sometimes served as infantry in battles.
- Beyond sergeants and squires were the serving brothers, a huge array of servants and support staff, from blacksmiths to cooks.
- By the middle of the twelfth century, the largest Templar garrisons in the kingdom “consisted of perhaps 50–60 knights, with as many as 400–500 other members.

A Squire

Sovereign Rulers

- A Grand Master was set over England, Germany, France and Italy and all the states of Christendom.
- The GRAND MASTER OF JERUSALEM was the head of the entire brotherhood.
- Knights Templar came to be one of the most powerful organizations in the world.
- The Pope was regarded as supreme in spiritual matters, but the Grand Master had greatest sovereignty (power).

Recognized by the Papal Bull - 1139

- Within a decade the Templars' fame spread to Europe.
- Church authorities spoke highly of them and praised their "Christian" undertaking.
- By 1128, a tract lauding their virtues and qualities was issued by Saint Bernard of Clairvaux, co-founder of Templars and the age's chief spokesman for Christendom.
- Bernard's tract, "In Praise of the New Knighthood," declares the Templars to be the epitome and apotheosis of "Christian" values.
- In 1139, they were appointed to answer to only the Pope.
- They became a law unto themselves, an international empire.

Wealth and Banking

- By 1150 the Templars owned more than forty castles and temples in Europe.
- It is estimated that eventually the Templars possessed nine thousand estates in England and France.
- Thus, the Templars quickly become immensely rich, but at the cost of needing to station large numbers of their members in Europe in order to manage these huge holdings.
- Because they sent large amounts of their income east to the kingdom of Jerusalem, they became experts in storing and moving wealth.
- They soon found that they could greatly add to their incomes by lending money, especially to nobility and other religious orders, at interest rates varying from 33 to 50 percent a year.
- So the Templars became, if not the central financial institution of Europe.

- They created and established the institution of modern banking.
- They became more financially powerful than the national governments.
- By lending vast sums to destitute monarchs they became the bankers for every throne in Europe—and for certain Muslim leaders as well.
- They also organized the safe and efficient transfer of money.
- Merchant traders became increasingly dependent upon them.
- Money deposited in one city could be claimed and withdrawn in another by means of promissory notes inscribed in intricate codes.
- The Templars thus became the priory money changers of the age, and the Paris Temple became the center of European finance.
- It is probable that the check as we know and use it today was invented by the order.

Soldiers of the Temple

- Templars became financially “indispensable to the French throne
- The Paris Temple was literally the center of financial administration in France.
- It offered a complete financial service, administering finances and collecting taxes, transmitting money, controlling debts, and paying pensions.
- Templars were expert accountants, judicious administrators, and pioneers in that development of credit and its instruments, which was destined to revolutionize the methods of commerce and finance.

Importance of Syria – Antioch Second only to Jerusalem

- The chief seat of the Templars remained at Jerusalem from 1118 until 1187.
- 1187 the Muslim ruler Saladin of Egypt invaded Palestine and captured Jerusalem.
- The chief seat of the Templars was then transferred to Antioch, the capitol of Syria.
- Antioch had been under Christian rule since 1098, during the first Crusade.
 - “And the disciples were called Christians first in Antioch,” Acts 11:26
- The early saints and martyrs performed miracles there and were persecuted. (2 Timothy 3:11)
- Headquarters was then moved to Acre until 1217.
 - A city of the tribe of Asher

The Templar Headquarters was here for four years.

Then the Templars moved to Caesarea.

Caesarea by the Sea

Built by Herod the Great
Dedicated to Caesar

Now inhabited and run by Rothschild Family

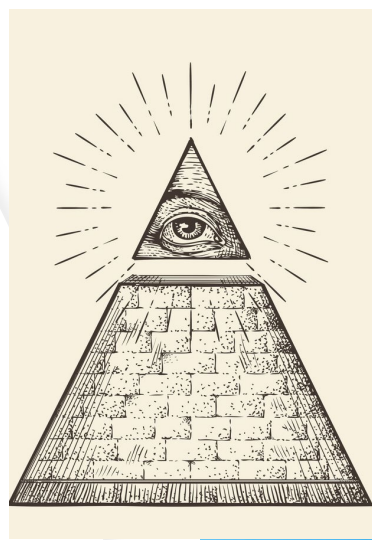

The Fall of the Knights Templar: The Siege of Acre, 1291

- Acre was a wealthy cosmopolitan city in 1291 when the Muslims turned their gaze on the great port, and it would become the last stand of the Templars.
- 1291, the largest army that Islam had ever assembled during 200 years of crusader warfare was advancing on the city of Acre.
- Swelled by a vast number of volunteers and fired by the spirit of jihad it had come to finally drive the Franks (Mervingsians) back into the sea.

Headquarters Moved to Cyprus

- In 1291 the headquarters was moved from Jerusalem to Kolossi Castle in Cyprus.
- The castle had ley lines in the basement.
- They used the ley lines to spread and stabilize secret influence through the entire world.
- The castle had the same negative frequency of the symbol of the pyramid and the all-seeing eye.
- After the Templars retired to the island of Cyprus they then scattered throughout Europe.

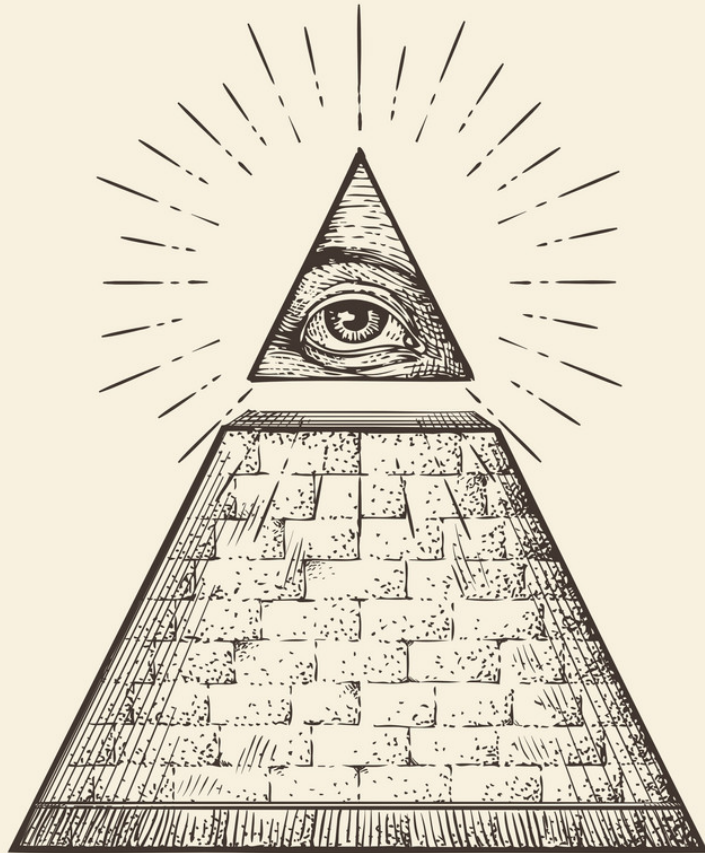

The Merovingian dynasty was the ruling family of the Franks

- Originally built in 1210 by the Frankish military.
- Rebuilt in 1454 by the Hospitallers

Connections – Influence on the World System

- Due to the Templars contact with Islamic and Judaic cultures, the Templars had absorbed a great many ideas alien to orthodox Roman Christianity.
- Templar masters, for example, often employed Arab secretaries, and many Templars could fluently speak Arabic in captivity,
- They maintained a close rapport with Jewish communities, financial interests, and scholarship.
- Through the influence of Cathar, they were exposed to Gnosticism.

Templars and Black Magic

- The Knights Templar, with their new-found wealth, had learned from the Jewish Kabbalah that mysticism and dark powers influence the world.
- The Knights had been overcome by their desire for wealth and power which led them to abandon their Christian founding and pursue Black Magic.

Octagonal structures came from Templars

- Based on six-pointed star (Seal of Solomon)
 - “Star of David” & Pyramid
 - Occultic symbol

The Symbolic Bee - Industry

- In 1653 an important Merovingian tomb was found, the tomb of King Childeric I, son of Merovée and father of Clovis, the most famous and influential of all Merovingian rulers.
- The tomb contained arms, treasure, and regalia such as one would expect to find in a royal tomb.
- It also contained items less characteristic of kingship than of magic, sorcery, and divination—a severed horse's head, for instance, a bull's head made of gold, and a crystal ball.
- The BEE is the sacred Merovingian symbol.
- Some 300 miniature bees made of solid gold were found and had been placed on the king's cloak.

Kings and Nobles Invested with the Templars

- In 1204, King John placed the crown jewels in the vault of the London Templars.
- Many others in England also placed large deposits of precious metals and jewels with the Templars, confident that there they would be safe from robbers.
- Because of their immense wealth, the Templars soon were “amongst the greatest money-lenders of Christendom.”
- Not only did the Templars lend to kings and nobles; they also undertook to manage their financial affairs.

Occult Rituals

- During their existence a mystique had come to surround the knights. Some said they were sorcerers and magicians, secret adepts and alchemists.
- In 1208, Pope Innocent III had admonished the Templars for unChristian behavior and referred explicitly to necromancy - conjuring the spirits of the dead for purposes of magically revealing the future

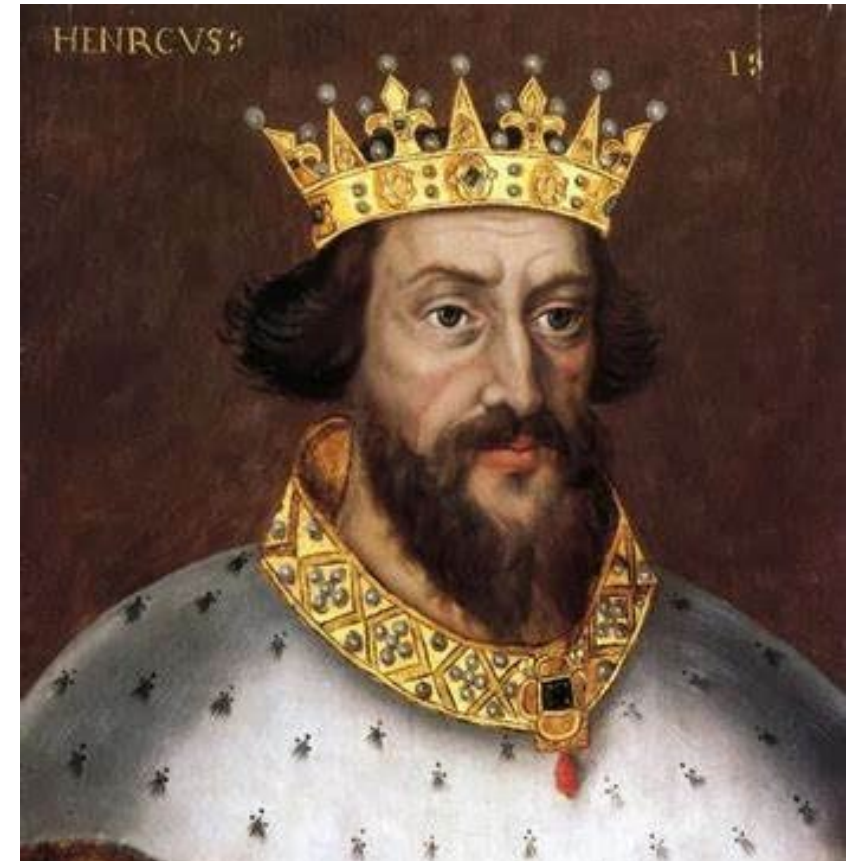

Castles, Secure Stronghold

- Templars soon were extremely influential in political life:
- Grand Masters were routinely consulted on pending decisions of state, both in Europe (especially in England and France) and in the Holy Land.
- In the 1240's the Templars had seven castles in Palestine, and the Hospitallers had three.
- Castles served as secure strongholds from which an area could be controlled.

Templar Power

- In 1252 Henry III of England dared to challenge them, threatening to confiscate certain of their domains.
- "You Templars ... have so many liberties and charters that your enormous possessions make you rave with pride and haughtiness. What was imprudently given must therefore be prudently revoked; and what was inconsiderately bestowed must be considerately recalled."
- The master of the order replied, "What sayest thou, O King? Far be it that thy mouth should utter so disagreeable and silly a word. So long as thou dost exercise justice, thou wilt reign. But if thou infringe it, thou wilt cease to be King."
- Templars had more rule than the Papacy.

The King and Molay

- In 1305, King Philip IV of France was deeply in debt to the Templars.
- He sought to merge the Templars with the Hospitallers, aiming to consolidate power under his command.
- However, the Templar Grand Master Jacques de Molay was opposed to this idea

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Philip_IV_of_France

Pope Clement and the King

- Without a deal to merge, the King sought to get rid of the Templars.
- In 1305, he worked to secure Pope, Clement V.
- The Pope was indebted to the King for securing him as Pope, so he cooperated when the King accused the Templars of heresy.
- This brought suppression to the Templars.
- King Philippe planned his moves carefully.
- A list of charges was compiled, partly from the king's spies who had infiltrated the order, partly from the voluntary confession of an alleged renegade Templar.

The King Gained Information

- A prisoner who was condemned to death shared a cell with a Knights Templar.
- He had information for the King.
- A figurine representing the King had been stabbed repeatedly during the black magic rites of the Knights Templar.
- Sexual perversion
- Child sacrifices for Baphomet – the more human blood, the more powerful.
- Women were taught how to perform abortions
- Homosexual orgies and blasphemous activities.
- Two former Knights Templars confirmed these facts.
- One “brother” admitted to having a homosexual relationship with De Molay.
 - One said De Molay was deceitful and manipulated the election to become the Grand Master.
- The prisoner was pardoned.

Architects of Deception, pg. 42-44, 46

The Templars Rejected the King

- By 1306 King Phillippe was intensely anxious to rid his territory of the Templars.
- They were arrogant and unruly.
- They were efficient and highly trained, a professional military force much stronger and better organized than any he himself could muster.
- Philippe had no control over the order.
- He owed it money. His life was in danger.
- He had been humiliated when fleeing from a rebellious Paris mob, he was obliged to seek abject refuge in the Temple's preceptory (religious house).
- He coveted the Templars' immense wealth.
- He applied to join the order as a candidate, but he suffered the indignity of being haughtily rejected.

Templars Arrested

- The King sent out secret orders which were to be opened everywhere simultaneously and implemented at once.
- At dawn on Friday, October 13, 1307, all Templars in France were to be seized and placed under arrest by the king's men, their preceptories placed under royal sequestration, their goods confiscated.
- 620 of the 3200 Templars were arrested, including Grand Master Jacques de Molay.
 - Some fled to Scotland to infiltrate the lodges of Freemasonry.
- They were tortured until they were willing to admit to numerous offences.
- However, they never found the Templar's immense wealth.
- It is believed the Templars received an advance warning of the King's plans.

The King's blow to the Templars was sudden, swift, and lethal.

- So, Pope Clement under King Phillipe's direction wrote to De Molay, the Grand Master, who was then at Cyprus, invited him to come and consult with him on some matters of great importance.
- De Molay arrived in Paris with sixty Knights and a large amount of treasure.
- On Friday, October 13, 1307, Grand Master Jacques de Molay was arrested and imprisoned, as well as every Knight in France, on the charge of IDOLATRY and other charges.

Templars and Baphomet

- The arrested Templars were tried and many subjected to torture. Strange confessions were extracted
- The Templars supposedly worshiped a devil called Baphomet.
- At their secret ceremonies they supposedly prostrated themselves before a bearded male head, which spoke to them and invested them with occult powers.
- Witnesses to these ceremonies were never seen again.
- There were other charges as well, which were even more vague: of child sacrifice, of teaching women how to abort, of obscene kisses at the induction of candidates, and of homosexuality.
- They were tried and condemned to death.

Templar Book Burning

- Shortly before the arrests, the Grand Master, Jacques de Molay, had the Templar's books and rules burned.
- An order went out to the Templars that no one was to divulge information regarding the order's customs and rituals.
- The treasure of the Temple, all of its documents and records disappeared.
- The property that was seized was transferred to the Hospitallers of St. John of Jerusalem.
- 9000 castles were confiscated.
- But the King made a serious mistake by not destroying the heart of the Templars, the Priory of Zion.

- The most bizarre accusation was these SOLDIERS OF THE CROSS ritually denied Christ.
- The fate of the arrested Templars was effectively sealed.
- On May 12, 1310, fifty-four of the Knights were burned.
- Philippe harassed them mercilessly. Many were burned, many more imprisoned and tortured.
- They claimed that during initiation ceremonies they were forced to trample and spit on the cross, deny Christ, sodomize other men and worship idols.
- At the same time the king continued to bully the Pope, demanding ever more stringent measures against the order.
- After resisting for a time, the Pope gave way in 1312, and the Knights Templar were officially dissolved but the forced confessions stayed with them.

Jacques de Molay

- On May 11, 1314 Grand Master, Jacques de Molay was roasted over an open fire by order of King Philip IV of France.
- The Last Grand Master of the Knights Templar at age 49 died.
- He was born into a family of converted Jewish minor nobles
 - Claim was he had blood ties back to Jesus Christ.
- He had become a Knight Templar at age 21.

The Curse of Death

- The final recorded act in the order's history had been the burning of the last grand master, Jacques de Molay, in March 1314.
- As the smoke from the slow fire choked the life from his body, Jacques de Molay is said to have issued an oath from the flames.
- According to tradition he called his persecutors—Pope Clement and King Philippe—to join him and account for themselves before the court of God—Clement within 40 days and the King within a year.
- Within a month Pope Clement was dead, supposedly from a sudden onslaught of dysentery (type of gastroenteritis).
- By the end of the year Philippe was dead as well. He was officially killed by a wild boar while hunting. It was actually a case of murder by a Templar agent.
- The apparent fulfillment of the grand master's curse lent credence to belief in the order's occult powers.

Curses and Poison

- The Templars possessed great expertise in the use of poisons.
- Those who had informed the authorities about the Knights Templar were killed.
- De Molay cursed France.
 - In 1315 France had several years of bad harvests.
 - 1346 to 1352 Black Death, bubonic plague claimed an estimated 24 million lives.
 - It was spread by rats and fleas
- De Molay had time to pass on his secrets before he was burned.
- A predecessor of De Molay at the request of De Molay during his imprisonment was asked to open the grave of de Molay's uncle and bring out a chest containing Knights Templar documents. These were transported to Scotland.

Templars Were Forerunners

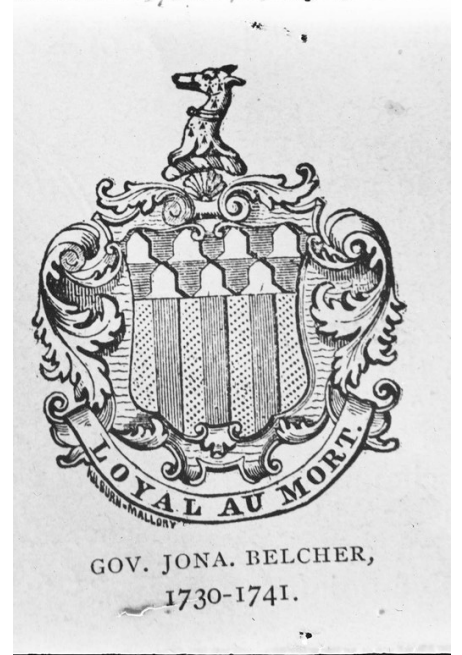

- By the eighteenth-century various secret and semisecret confraternities were praising the Templars as both precursors and mystical newcomers.
- Many Freemasons of the period appropriated the Templars as their own forerunners.
- Certain Masonic "rites" or "observances" claimed direct lineal descent from the order as well as authorized custody of its mysterious secrets.

- The Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania possesses a book marked "Liber B" which contains the records of the earliest known Pennsylvania and American Lodge.
- The first record is for 24 June 1731, and in that month Benjamin Franklin (1705–1790) is entered as paying dues five months back.
- Franklin's entry implies Lodge activity from at least December 1730 or January 1731.
- No earlier Lodge records exist in the United States, though there are suggestive comments in newspapers.

Many Steps Up the Ladder Embedded with Templar Doctrine

- York Rite: Originated in North America and consists of three main bodies: Chapter (Royal Arch Masons), Council (Royal and Select Masters), and Commandery (Knights Templar).
 - Emphasizes Christian principles, particularly in the Knights Templar.
- Scottish Rite: Originated in Europe and includes 33 degrees, with the first three degrees considered "Blue Lodge" degrees shared with York Rite and other Masonic bodies.
 - Focuses on Masonic philosophy, social issues, and personal development.

EXECUTION OF LOUIS XVI

- Knights Templar were regarded as occult adepts, illumined alchemists, magi and mentors, master masons, and high initiates—authentic supermen endowed with an awesome arsenal of mysterious power and knowledge.
- They were also regarded as heroes and martyrs, harbingers of the anticlerical spirit of the age; and many French Freemasons, in conspiring against Louis XVI, felt they were helping to implement Jacques de Molay's dying curse on the French line.
- During the French Revolution, the king's head fell beneath the guillotine, accused of treason.
- An unknown man is reported to have leaped onto the scaffold. He dipped his hand in the monarch's blood, flung it out over the surrounding throng and cried, "Jacques de Molay, thou art avenged!"

Tradition Integrity Honor

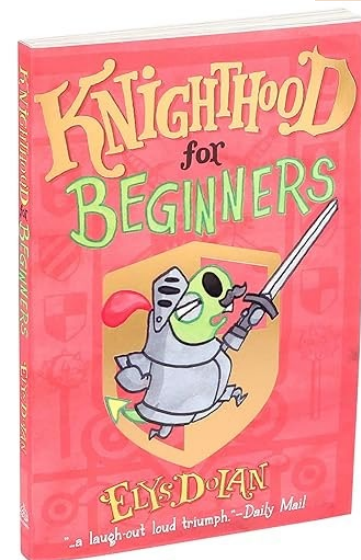

- Some organizations today call themselves Templars, claiming to possess a pedigree from 1314 and characters whose authenticity has never been established.
- Certain Masonic lodges have adopted the grade of "Templar" as well as rituals and appellations supposedly descended from the original order.
- Toward the end of the nineteenth century a sinister Order of the New Templars was established in Germany and Austria, employing the swastika as one of its emblems.

Intermingled and Mixed with Community Clubs

- In the United States teen-age boys are admitted into the De Molay Society, most do not know where the name originates.
- In Britain as well as elsewhere in the West, rotary clubs dignify themselves with the name "Templar" and include famous public figures.
- Like all secret societies the Knights Templar had two different doctrines, one secret and exclusively for the leaders, the other public.

Vow of Secrecy

- The vow of secrecy contains an ‘ancient penalty’ which is, in effect, a spiritual curse, on the candidate and his family, and that they would be asked to ratify it as a binding oath.
- Every ‘ancient penalty’ includes a curse of death (mostly barbaric) and attacks specific regions of the mind and body.
- For example, one of the most heinous is in the Knights Templar degree in York rite (which claims to be Christian).

Penal clauses (contd)

- Knights Templar oaths

‘under no less penalty than loss of life, by having my head struck off and placed on the point of a pinnacle or spire, my skull sawn asunder and my brains exposed to the scorching rays of the sun—’

‘ may the spirit which once inhabited this skull rise up and testify against me if I ever wilfully expose my obligation of a Knight’s Templar’

Demonic Effects to Mind, Soul, and Spirit

In Jesus Name, I symbolically remove all head coverings associated with any rituals, especially Mitres associated with the Knights Templar or other degrees. I declare all related curses on my mind and emotions, particularly those of the Knights Templar oath of 'having the head struck off and the brains exposed to the scorching rays of the sun' to be broken and I command all associated spirits including spirits of death, spirits of blasphemy, religious spirits, spirits of confusion, legalism, secrecy and silence, self-righteousness, saviour mentality, perfectionism, submission to 'salvation by works', domination, control, submission to control, deception, submission to deception, rebellion, anxiety, vexation, anger, alcoholism, vengeance, intimidation, insomnia, adherence to false doctrine, unbelief, inability to interpret God's Word, love of position, possessive love, unwitting entrapment of others, insanity, depression, other mental illness (eg autism, bipolar, dementia, Alzheimer's), dyslexia, anorexia, bulimia, epilepsy, fear of rejection, fear of man, fear of the dark, Multiple Sclerosis, to go in Jesus Name.

Deliverance

- Repent, renounce, ask for cleansing from iniquity, and break the curse.
 - Prayer of Repentance (Acts 2:38, 3:19, Luke 13:3, 2 Corinthians 6:2).
 - Prayer of Renunciation (Romans 12:2, 2 Corinthians 4:2, Luke 14:33).
 - Prayer of Cleansing from Iniquity (Psalm 51:2, Ezekiel 36:25, Isaiah 1:18)
 - Prayer to Break the Curse (Exodus 20:5, Ephesians 4:27, Galatians 3:13, Isaiah 54:17, Romans 8:2)
- But above all things, my brethren, swear not, neither by heaven, neither by the earth, neither by any other oath: but let your yea be yea; and your nay, nay; lest ye fall into condemnation (James 5:12).
